COMMUNITY CHANGES - PAST - PRESENT - FUTURE

Second year students of the Appomattox Primary School are studying how the Appomattox Community changes. Recently, a field trip for all 220 second year students was conducted to Harper's Mill, a mill with a wooden wheel and a waterfall showing how water can produce energy. The energy is used to turn the wheel which grinds corn into cornmeal. Children were delighted to come back with bags of freshly ground cornmeal. Thanksgiving and cornmeal are the favorite combination for that extra good home-made tasting stuffing!

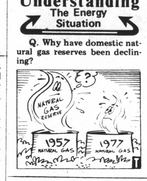
Understanding
The Energy Situation

Q. Why have domestic natural gas reserves been declining?



A. For over 20 years, the federal government has regulated the price of interstate natural gas at levels below production costs. This has resulted in over-stimulated demand for this cheap and clean-burning fuel. And while spurring consumption, the low regulated price of the fuel has also discouraged producers from searching for gas.

As a result, our nation's natural gas reserves are being seriously depleted. What can be done to reverse this reserves depletion? One step would be to deregulate natural gas prices.

Protecting Our Environment

COWBOYS OF THE SEA

U.S. tuna fishermen are the best in the world. Not only are they good at their jobs but they are without equal in their concern for porpoises and the steps they take to free those porpoises encircled by their tuna nets.

It was captains of the U.S. fleet who invented the new back-down procedures and the porpoise-saving Medina panel which now helps porpoises swim free while holding tuna in the nets.

At times, before they haul in their catch, captains literally turn crewmen into "cowboys of the sea." These brave men sometimes even get into the water—often shark infested—to help herd porpoises to freedom. These costly, risky efforts are paying off. Last year, according to government reports, nearly 99 out of every 100 porpoises caught were released unharmed. And the record continues to improve. Ours is the only fleet in the world which has installed rescue netting, regularly practices porpoise rescue and continually seeks to improve its rescue techniques.

Appomattox Golfer Hopes To Become Club Pro

Reprinted from The NEWS, Thurs., Nov. 17, 1977

By Calvin Porter, News Sports Editor

Jerry Conner

Jerry Conner hopes some day to be a club golf pro, and the Appomattox youngster should have the credentials to please any club when that day comes.

Conner won't be job hunting for several years yet. He's a student at Virginia Tech, getting the academic background to match his playing ability.

The Appomattox youngster made Tech's state collegiate championship golf team as a walk-on last year and participated in half of his school's matches. Making the Tech team is no small order. The Gobblers have won the state collegiate championship 18 of the last 20 years, and have a number of scholarship players on the squad.

Although he is not a scholarship player, Conner would be a welcomed addition at almost any college. He is a one handicap golfer.

And when the day comes that he gets his degree, he will have a number of golf trophies to hang alongside his diploma.

Conner has won the Falling River club championship the last three years and each year his score keeps coming down. In 1975, he shot a 227, in 1976 he fired a 218 for three rounds and this year he had a six under par 210, including a course record six under par 66 in one round. He won his third consecutive club championship this year by 12 strokes over his nearest rival.

Conner not only appears to have locks on the club championship, but he has fared well in other tournaments in which he played last summer.

He was co-champion with partner Keith Ferguson of the Falling River Member-Member tournament with a 141, shooting rounds of 70 and 71.

We talked about things involving Christmas and drew some pictures. The class also sang songs, played games and discussed last month's 4-H meeting.

The county 4-H Share-the-Fun show will be held on Dec. 1, 1977 starting at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Make your plans to attend.

Tech Wallops Wake Forest 28 to 10

By Billy Conner

Many area football fans remember when Virginia had its own version of the Army - Navy game and the show-down always took place in Lynchburg's Municipal Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. It was later moved to Roanoke, still on Turkey Day, and more recently scheduled the Saturday after Thanksgiving on a home and home basis. I am talking about the annual VPI -VMI contest which is coming up this Saturday at Blacksburg, and like the Army - Navy clash, season records can be thrown away for this one.

VMIpicked up its seventh win of the season Saturday with a 20-7 victory over Rhode Island. They have three losses and would seem to be a heavy favorite Saturday, since they have already captured the Big Five Championship. Tech, on the other hand, has won only two and tied one but have lost some big ones by just a few points.

Last Saturday, in Lane Stadium, with their newly discovered fullback, Mickey Fitzgerald, in high gear, they steamrolled over a stubborn Wake Forest team 28-10 and just might have something going.

After an exchange of punts in the first period, Tech got the ball on the Deacons 47. A personal foul penalty pushed them back 15 yards before they managed to get a drive started that ended with Fitzgerald pushing over from the one with five minutes remaining in the quarter. Paul Engle added the PAT and Tech led 7-0.

After the kickoff, the Tech defense held and the Deacons were forced to punt. Tech started another drive from their 20 and seemed certain to score until David Lamie fumbled on the WF 15 and WF recovered. The Deacons immediately marched 85 yards with James McDougald scoring from the seven and the game was tied.

The Gobblers were unable to move the ball on their next series of downs and punted to the WF 37 yard line. The NC team ran several plays, took advantage of a Tech personal foul and came up with a fourth down on Tech's 37. From there Matt Harnisch split the uprights with a FG and WF took a 10-7 lead to the dressing room at the half.

However, that ended the scoring for the Deacons as the Gobblers dominated play in the second half with Fitzgerald scoring twice and Lamie once. Engle added three PAT for the 28-10 Tech victory.

Thus, the stage is set for Saturday, November 26 in Blacksburg, Va.

Runner Reaches Goal, Then Some

[reprint from The NEWS, Lynchburg]

HARRISONBURG - Richard Ferguson's goal at the beginning of James Madison University's 1977 cross country season was, "to be the best I can be and then some."

His goal was attained, and then some.

It wasn't easy. Ferguson, who lettered as a freshman last year, ran 1,700 miles during his off-season training program and came back to JMU this fall in excellent condition.

His hard work paid off as he finished first in the Dukes second dual meet of the season against Virginia Tech. The sophomore from Appomattox, cross the finish line that afternoon with his arms raised in a victory gesture. He was to repeat the gesture several more times during the 1977 season as he finished first in four other meets. Ferguson had course record times in four of his five wins.

Ferguson points to his victory at Frostburg State in JMU's last dual meet if the season as his best race of the year. He simply ran away from the field in breaking the Frostburg course record by almost 30 seconds.

"I feel like I'm running better every time I go out," Ferguson says. "I think I weaked too early last season, while this year I improved steadily during the course of the season.

Ferguson was slightly disappointed with JMU's 8-8 record and sixth place finish at the State Meet this fall.

"I thought we could have had an undefeated season and finish fourth in the state," Ferguson said.

Were there any personal disappointments in what would appear to be an outstanding season for him?

"I thought I should have won the Indiana State (Pa.) Invitational," Ferguson said, "I let it slip away from me.

Ferguson was narrowly beaten in a close finish at the Indian State Invitational.

JMU head coach, Ed Witt, reiterates Ferguson's self-appraisal of the 1977 season.

"Richard's improvement surprised me from the start of the season," Witt said. "The reason for his success is dedication and hard work."

Ferguson finished 36th last Saturday (Nov. 12) in the NCAA Division I, Region II-Cross Country Meet at Furman University. More than 200 top collegiate runners competed in the 10,000 - meter race.

There will be no lull in Richard Ferguson's running even though JMU's cross country season has ended. Ferguson, who is also a member of the James Madison track program, wants to break nine minutes in the two-mile and run a 4:10 mile.

If his cross country achievements are any indication, those goals should be within reach, and then some.
